

How will it be with us my love...

How will it be with us my love when we've lived one thousand years
Then having passed our earthly tests both with selfless love ensured?
What will this marriage have become on sinless earth made new?
Oh can you tell me how this love unfolds that made me one with you?

How will it be with us my love when we've lived ten thousand years
And seen vast worlds now yet unknown still veiled from human tears
What will this marriage have become when countless friends endear
Our hearts in universal love, will we still be called "My Dear."

How will it be with us my love when we've lived one million years
Communed with God and angel hosts, and explored endless spheres?
And will there be a place where we return to share alone
Our deepest thoughts and fondest words in our own eternal home?

How will it be with us my love when we've lived ten billion years
With minds immersed in holiness, as we reign with Christ inured
To any partiality, embracing every soul
With love unbounded? Will we then our special love still know?

How will it be with us my love when we've lived one trillion years
With characters so far advanced as to dwarf what drew us near.
Then can you tell me what remains of the ancient love we share?
Come look we with me beyond the veil. Yes, come my love, let's dare!

See how our path of tearful trials through Christ new victories won
As through life's trials together we approached the Eternal Son
Full knowing as none other could, each other's heaven-bound growth
Prepared to serve with greater power whenever He calls us both.

Although its true, we've more to learn to serve our Prince with power
Confirming through our love, His Grace, in Earth's soon darkest hour.
But as we pray "Unite our souls in pure unselfless love,"
Arising in God's glory, He'll be seen in us my love!

Though Eden's pair lost love's joy to selfish hearts abhorred
The final generation lives to show Love's laws can be restored
As blood moons rise, and nations war, and Popes as beasts ascend,
Our love will beam to watching worlds that God's love never ends.
