

REMEMBER?

Do you remember when
We chose life and love together.
We were just brand new friends
Full of happy hopes and dreams
Remember, pledging forever
We'd love till the end?

Now looking back on those future dreams
We've weathered life's trials together
And measured that love.

Love now, is it the same
After countless days together?
Tell me, have we changed
Is it us or just love's changing
Weather; can others tell whether
Or not we're in love?

How could it be we've taken love too much
For granted, our garden unplanted
With fresh seeds of love.

Would you confide in me
Where you see our hearts have parted.
Shall we our garden weed
And plant new seeds whose fragile sprouts
Once started, then prayerfully watered
Soon blossom fresh love.

Fruit, sweet and pure, soon will ripen here
As Sonlight, bright with God's One light
Shines down from above.

Will you guard with me
Every word we seed together.

Hedging each thought and deed
With the Laws of Love that God
Imparted, His first garden started,
When He made them one.

Love, blossom free like a symphony
Of Roses where no thorn imposes
On God's harmony.

Do you remember when
We chose life and love together
We were just brand new friends
Full of happy hopes and dreams
Remember, pledging forever
We'd love till the end?

You're still to me the one I long to see
In God's Garden, arms full of Love's pardon
For eternity.
