

You... You're the only one

You... You're the only one
My joys had not begun
'Till you said "I do."
There, glowing as my bride
Vowing you'd confide
In all I'd do.

We felt our flames twofold
Merging... then implode into One.

Now the years have proved our name's
Not simply just the same...
As begun.
We are One.

Wed on Springtime's youthful breeze
We frolicked in the tease
Of Summer greenery.
There, in mountain meadows strong
Sharing Love's light long
We raised Kimmy

Through death's trial still God's Flame
Strong-burning, yet sustained
Us as One.

Now the years have proved our name's
Not simply just the same,
As begun.
We are One.

God, so good, would send a friend
Faithful to the end of his life's mission
"Scruff" so simple in his cheer,
Affections ever pure
Raised our vision.

Through Fall's dark and clouded years
He wagged away the tears
That would come.

Now again death proves our name's
Not simply just the same,
As begun.
We are One.

Love's Spring, Youth's Summer, then Life's Fall
Our Wise God gave all
Each in due season.

Though we couldn't know every cause
In prayer we've daily paused
And found reasons.

Through each trial we've learned to trust
Prepared for Winter's thrust
When it comes.

Then this Love will prove that name
We've shared is just the same
As God's Son.
We'll be One.

You... you warm me as the Sun
When your smile breaks across my morning
The light of Love in your eyes upholds me
Your hand, in mine, gives me strength anew.

In Love abiding, beyond Winter's chiding
We'll fly confiding
To our home on Earth made new.
